IN CONSEQUENCE OF THE PROPRIETOR DECLINING THE PURSUIT, AS HE IS ABOUT JOINING THE ARMY.

It should be borne in mind that the whole of this property has been collected from every available source, regardless of expense, whether in the Foreign Galleries or the Home Market. This collection has called forth from the most distinguished connoisseurs, their unqualified admiration, and has been designated by an admirer of the fine arts in this City, as one of the FINEST COLLECTIONS of a Dealer, displaying the most finished and cultivated taste, both in the selection of Masters and choice of subject.

THE SALE will include many of the finest productions of the founders of the schools of art.

Mr. SPELMAN particularly alludes to an INTERIOR, by TERBERG, to which the highest order of merit must be awarded, and which is decidedly a splendid specimen of the incomparable DUTCHMAN, an unquestionable gem, worthy a place in the finest EUROPEAN COLLECTION; an exquisite finish and minuteness of detail are carried throughout the Interior, in the deepest shadow, or half tints, with a skill known only to TERBERG.

THE VIRGIN MARY, INFANT JESUS AND JOSEPH. - - - VANDYKE.

THE HOLY FAMILY - F. FRANCIA—An unrivalled specimen of this GIANT OF ART.

LOT

14. A View in Switzerland, Cattle terrified at the Storm ROWLAND SAVERY.

A Clever and Genuine Specimen, bearing Name and Date.

15. A Lady with a Parrot GASPER NETCHER.

16. The Storm JOSEPH VERTEL.

A clever and spirited Engraved Picture.

17. St. John Preaching in the Wilderness BRUEGHEL.

A brilliantly coloured and exquisitely finished Picture.

18. Portrait of Titian, by himself, in a fine old Carved Frame.

19. The Departure of Ulysses for the Trojan War KARL DE MOOR.

20. Lovers Quarrels (Engraved) NEWTON.

A charming specimen of a favourite English Master.

21. A Battle Piece WOUVERMANS.

A spirited and exquisitely finished specimen of the Master.

22. A View on the Rhine BREEMBERG.

A faithful representation of Nature.

23. Interior of a Dutch Cabaret DAVID TENIERS.

The gesture, natural position, and clever grouping of the several figures, might, alone, suffice to indicate the Master; but when, in addition, we observe the peculiar transparency, distribution, and depth of colour, the authenticity of the work is placed beyond a doubt.

24. The Head of a Girl GREUZE.

26. The Wife of Darius before Alexander SIR P. P. RUBENS.

A carefully painted Picture by this admired Master.

27. An Interior, a Musical Party TERBERG.

An undoubted original of this great Master, whose works are highly prized.

28. A Battle Piece BREYDEL.

An extraordinarily highly finished and captivating little gem, well worthy the attention of the Connoisseur.

LOT

29. A Lady with a Bouquet G. DOUW.

Painted with all this Artist's well-known exactness to finish and effect, and ranks among the highest quality of the Dutch school.

30. Birth of Venus H. LIVERSIDGE.

31. Vesuvius in a State of Eruption MARIESCHI.

32. The Nativity, with Shepherd's Adoring MURILLO.

It would entirely exceed the limits of a catalogue to expatiate on the merits of this distinguished Master, whose fame as an Artist will live as long as civilization lasts. It is seldom a picture of this class comes before the public, more particularly in such an excellent state of preservation.

33. Landscape and Cattle OMEGANCK.

The works of this Master are by no means sufficiently known and appreciated in this country. Their quality and merits entitle them to hold the highest rank. The correctness of this estimate will be readily borne out by an inspection of this charming production, which, in the fine and delicate handling, rich and enamelled touches of drawing, will satisfy the most refined taste.

34. Holy Family encircled with Flowers SCHUTZ and G. SEGHERS.

The combined powers of two Artists, both possessing uncommon talents, who worked well together, and thoroughly felt their subject, were appropriately put into requisition to portray the Holy Family with spirit and effect, and beautifully have they encircled these objects of Christian love and reverence, with those decorations of Nature.

35. Harbour in Normandy RUTLAND.

Very spirited, partaking the beauties of Stanfield.

36. Lake of Albano, with Italian Peasants BARKER of Bath.

The setting Sun diffuses a golden warmth over the whole of this charming scene. It was painted by the Master on the spot.

37. A companion to the above By the same Master.

38. Kirkstall Abbey RATHBONE.

39. John, Baptizing Christ FRANKS.

40. Diana, after the Fatigues of the Chase POELEMBERG.

This magnificent Picture is of very high class, and may be considered one of the Artist's finest specimens.

LOT

41. An Exterior.—Lady and Gentleman partaking Refreshment, with a Female Attendant and another Figure Retiring P. DE HOOG.

The Sun shining upon him and the other figures, produces a charming effect and illumines the whole of the Work, with that skill which was never exceeded by any Master of the Dutch School. This Picture bears all the enamel of age, and will improve much by cleaning.

42. The Celebrated Young Bull PAUL POTTER.

Carefully finished and painted with the Artist's usual truth to Nature. This is indeed a Cabinet gem of the Dutch School, and is the first thought of the Master, who Painted the celebrated Picture at the Hague. Life size. It bears the Name and Date.

43. Open Air Sketch.—Banstead, Surrey CONSTABLE, R. A.

44. Landscape and Buildings, with Piece of Water WYNANTS.

An exquisite Cabinet Gem with Landscape of great purity; a fine composition, combining the varied and matchless perfections of colour, drawing, and finish so peculiarly his own. It is almost needless to state that the Works of this Master are very rare and more highly prized than those of any other Painter of the same style, more particularly his Cabinet specimens, of which he produced but few. The present has been handed down in a fine state of preservation, and may fairly rank as a brilliant of the first water, in connexion with productions of art

45. An Allegorical Subject ALONSO CANO.

The eye of the Connoisseur will at once recognize the Master.

46. The Virgin Mary, Infant Christ, and Joseph VANDYKE.

There are associations connected with this subject, which only the conception of the Poet and the execution of the Painter can bring home to congenial minds; though this has been said to be an oft repeated theme, how inconclusive such an objection must appear, when we recollect that the most splendid emanations of human genius, necessarily become common, from the universality of the admiration, which causes them to be multiplied in a thousand different forms. Thus has it been with this subject—one, in which, the loveliest objects in nature, feminine and infantile beauty, calling up the lofty and sublime thought, inseparably investing them in the pages of sacred history, will always fill with rapture and enthusiasm the religious and poetical. There is besides a style belonging to the accomplished mind which produced this great work, stamping with its peculiar genius, every touch of the pencil. The diversified excellencies of the art are combined and heaped together with so prodigal a hand, that we are lost in endeavouring to select a particular passage for special admiration—the unstudied, yet elegant attitude, the perfectly beautiful proportions, the natural grace of the Woman adoring the dignity of the Mother of Christ, by turns arrest our attention; but perhaps it is the exquisite sweetness of expression throughout, which affords us the highest pleasure, and elicits the approbation, alike of the uninstructed and the Connoisseur.

The softness, lightness, and delicacy of touch, combined with an elaborate finish in the flesh, are so thoroughly indicative of the pencil of the Master, that to insist on these points as evidence of authenticity, would be but to offer a slight to the understanding, even of the novice.

LOT

Art can go no further than in presenting the most beautiful beings in creation, who appear to be breathing, and sensitive before your admiring gaze, whose springy and life-like limbs convey the impression of actual flesh and blood, who seem to breath the same atmosphere, and to be really susceptible to the touch

43. Garden Scene WATTEAU.

One of those elegant and costly assemblies which this accomplished artist delighted to represent in rustic scenes, is introduced in this really beautiful picture with more than his ordinary effectiveness and grace. Music and the belles lettres preside over the varied groups, according to their respective tastes.

48. Christ Meeting Martha and Mary LEONARDO DA VINCI.

A pure taste and high artistical power are evinced in the treatment of this subject, which is invested with a dignity and interest, distinguishing a superiority of mind.

49. Haerlem Wood HOBIMA.

A very rare and charming specimen of this admired Master. The beautiful and harmonious tone of colour is not more admirable than the spirited and natural effect to touch, given to the various objects in this picture.

50. Lake of Albano R. WILSON.

An elegant Scene, painted with a vigorous pencil and finished with the greatest care, producing a most harmonious and fascinating effect. This Picture justly entitles the Master to the appellation of the English Claude.

51. An elaborately Carved Oak Tepoy, supported by a Carved Figure, unique and rare, from the Collection of the late Theodore Hook, Esq.

52. An elaborately Carved Oak Screen, from ditto

53. Pair of Bronzes.
